THE BEST RECORD AT A MILE AND A HALF EQUALLED.

It was a dead, heavy, close and murky day at Mon mouth. The air was dripping with moisture, and not mouth. The air was dripping with moisture, and the the slightest ripple of a breeze relieved the discom-fort of those present. The sensation of the day, and the racing sensation of the year, was The Bard's first defeat in 1888. He ran a great race, carrying the full weight of 120 pounds, making the pace all the way, and equalling the record. 2:34, at a mile and a But well as he ran. Firenzi ran better, and beat him easily. The Bard went out from the fall of the flag and showed the way, but the first half mile was run in slow time, 52 seconds. The next quarter occupied 26 seconds. This is the uphill quarter at the turn by the club-house. In the latter half of this Hayward began slightly urging The Bard, endeavoring to draw away from Firenzi, who was lying behind. On the backstretch the pace became furious. Hayward had the idea that he must get as far away as possible from Firenzi in this part of the race, and seemed anxious also to show The Bard's prowess and make remarkable time. But fast as The Bard ran, Firenzi still clung to him. He was leading by more than a length, however, at the end of the first mile, the lower turn as most of the spectators expected. Coming into the homestretch he was still in front, bu at the furlong post Firenzi closed with him, and although Hayward used the whip and rode The Bard freely, Firenzi passed him and won by a length.

The opinion of most of the turf experts was that the defeat of the great horse was due to the fact that his trainer held Firenzi too cheap. The Bard had not had a race since the Fourth of July. Firenzi had been running in race after race, each one of which had improved her, and she was yesterday in better condition and fitter for a hard struggle than at any previous time in her career. She had had just enough of racing, and not too much, to put her exactly on edge. The Bard had done little severe work in preparation for this race. He was worked a mile and a half a few days before in 2:30, not 2:37 as at first reported. His only work of importance except that was a mile and a quarter in 2:16, pulled up. This was by no means sufficient preparation to meet one of the best fillies that the American turf has seen, when she was in perfect trim for a great struggle. Mr. Huggins had expected to work The Bard gradually up to the point of his highest form for the Champion Stakes on Saturday, August 11. He supposed that his horse would have no difficulty in winning the Freehold even if not fully fit. In this he was much mistaken. And yet the magnificent race that he ran, the time which he made and all the merits of his performance show what a racchorse he is even when he is not at his highest pitch. Firenzi has improved enormously since the Fourth of July, when The Bard beat Kingston and her so badly that she looked almost like a selling-plater. But this was at a mile and a furlong. Firenzi is an undoubted stayer, and is much better at a mile and a half than at a shorter distance, and every one of her races had helped to develop her speed, to take away the last ounce of superfluous weight, and to make her the superb racing machine which she was yesterday. The friends of The Bard are not yet satisfied that she is his superior. Let us wait and see what the two will do when they meet in the Champion at the same distance and with the same weights, on Saturday of next same experiment with The Bard which proved so successful against Troubadour last year. The Bard has won many races, it is true, by going out and making the pace, but Troubadour beat him twice last year when The Bard pursued this plan. In the third meeting at Monmouth of these two, The Bard made a waiting race of it and beat Troubadour with the utmost case. The old English rule should not be forgotten, that to make the pace is equivalent to a handicap of seven pounds. Horses that have a great advantage in the weight, especially those that rarry feather weight, of course ought to go out and make the pace and try to make the speed tell on the other horses in the race. But The Rard has run and won some splendid races at a mile and a half nd at other distances by waiting behind his adversaries and choosing his own time to make his decisive rush as Firenzi chose hers yesterday. ave no thought of depreciating Firenzi. She has been praised again and again most heartly in this She is a great filly, and one of the foremost racers to-day in America. But she must prove that she is better than The Bard by more than one uccess if she can, and prove this when the great horse has had sufficient racing to insure his highest speed and staying power, and not after he has been dulged with a full month of blieness. It must not be forgotten how far The Bard beat her in the Ocean Stakes at Monmouth, how easily and how far he beat Elkwood in the Coney Island Cup, and Elkwood finished in the Suburban in front of Firenzi, although race-goers are always in the mood for jumping at conclusions hastily, and many of them were cocksure after yesterday's triumph of Firenzi that the filly was better than the champion of Chesterbrook.

greet Mr. Cassatt on his return from Europe, that his great horse has been beaten, and that by a filly, but ssibly their meeting next week may put a different ace on affairs. The dirty little curs that have been yelping and snarling at The Bard's heels will snap eagerly at this chance for attacking him, and a lot of silly stuff will be printed to the effect that he is not a great raceborse after all. But men of sense will not ed these mongrel howls. They will remember that as a three-year-old be heat every three-year-old of any champion of the horses of that age. That as a fourhim twice, while he beat Troubadour twice, and beat every other horse he met in masterly style; and that this year he has shown form never surpassed on the American turf, and has as yet lost only one race, after properly prepared for a tremendous contest.

her recent performances, and won the first race neatly, with Renedictine and Strideaway close up. Strideaway was the favorite, although he has not won a race this year. The strongest of tips concerning him was

The second race, a handicap for two-year-olds, was captured by Mr. Withers's grotesquely named filly, Chemise. It has been reported from Paris, by those learned in such matters, that the prevailing fashion among certain circles of Parisiennes has been for all black underwear. Mr. Withers is a bachelor of mafured years, and it was not supposed that he had paid special attention to the frivolities and follies of dicates that he has been a careful reader of the ladies' fashion bulletins from the gay French capital. any of his friends joke with him about his odd fancy, he calmly refers them to the famous old motto of the English Order of the Garter, " Hont Soit Qui Mal y Pense," but he has not as yet announced his intention Garrison, who rode Groomsman in the second race. and was a strong second, made a complaint of foul aga not Littlefield, who rode Chemise. But there was no just cause for this, and the judges set it aside. In fact, if any claim for fooling had been entertained it would have been rather from Littlefield against Garrison, for Carrison interfered with the Withers filly during most of the last furlong. Porter Ashe is one of the most amiable, agreeable and warm-hearted young turfinen who ever came from California or anywhere else, but he cannot really care to win races. If he had any wish of that sort, a little. His colt Floodtide had a great chance in the second race. His work had been better than that of any other horse entered, but Mr. Ashe, with the most amazing and fantastic lack of judgment imaginable, put up a stable boy on the colt, who got off last and could never do anything with him. Mr. Withers started two fillies, and Cascade, in the Elizabeth Stakes. but told his friends that both were certain to be beaten by Green Morris's specialty, who had been doing fast work. He was right in this, and yet, if Littlefield had ridden Inverwick with any judgment, Mr. Withers would have won the stake. Eillie on Specialty was pocketed and interfered with as he came around into the homestretch, and Littlefield on Inverwick had so commanding a lead that he could have won, but he took a pull on the filly, supposing that Specialty was beaten off, and Eillie coming with a rush at the end won the race by a neck, while Littlefield blundered all over the track in his efforts to finish too late with Invervice. In spite of this bad blunder, Littlefield was fortunate enough to win three races, with Flagouetta, Chemise and Lady Primrose, Lady Primrose led all the way in the fourth race, and won easily with Cambyses second, a head before Taragon, who was a head before Swift. The Morrissey stable was confident of winning with Kahodah, and as Pitzpatrick could not make the weight, engaged Garrison. But the result of the race proved again the total inability of Mr. Morrissey's trainer to do justice to Kahodah, as well as to Banburg. These two horses last year ran consistently all the time. Their form could be gauged almost to a pound. Tolk year they are the whilest pair of invises trained in any stable in America. Rabolah never showed the least speed and Garrison could do nothing with her. but told his friends that both were certain to be

The selling race for two-year-olds was won easily by the Brighton Beach "tip." Little Jake, while Mona captured the seventh race. The attendance was good, but the disappointment ever the defeat of The Bard caused general gloom. Only a few lewd fellows of the baser sort yelled and shouted when the great horse was defeated. His calamity was a bitter stroke to nearly all the spectators, of whom he is the racing idel.

Aniong hose present were William L. Scott, who was not severely sick at his daughter's cottage as reported, but was well enough to be on the track and take deep interest in the races. Perhaps his interest in politics has fallen off so that he prefers the atmosphere of the race-course to that of the Capitol at Washington, or of the Democratic headquarters in New-York. Others who were observed at the course were Senator Hearst, John Hunter, J. F. Purdy, Belmont Purdy, Pierre Lor llard, jr., General M. T. McMahon, William S. Barnes, General Roger A. Pryor, B. A. Haggin, A. L. Wolcott, George Clark, Colonel Frank Hall, James Laird, Inspector Byrnes, and the members and officers of the Monmouth Park Association, D. D. Withers, Mr. Galway, Colonel Simmons, Clarence McDovell, and Captain Coster.

Before the defeat of The Bard by Firenzi, John Kelly suggested to Mr. Withers that it would be well for the Monmouth Park Association to try to arrange a great race between The Bard, Kingston, Terra Cotta, Firenzi, and other good horses, and Mr. Withers cordially agreed to this, and said that Monmouth weuld do as much as or more than any other race-track for such a race. It was suggested that a special sweepstakes at a mile and a quarter might be arranged, with $500 entrance for each horse and $5,000 added by the Association. It was at first believed that the owners of Kingston, Terra Cotta, Firenzi, and others would insist on same special allowance of weight from The Bard, but after Firenzi defeated the champion, it was thought that these owners might be willing to meet The Bard at the regular weights. Mr. Kelly went to

The Bard, but after Firenzi defeated the champion, it was thought that these owners might be willing to meet The Bard at the regular weights. Mr. Kelly went to Saratoga last evening to see the Dwyers and the owners of Terra Cotta, to learn if such a race could be arranged. If any man can arrange such an affair successfully, Mr. Kelly is the man. If he succeeds, it will make him even more popular than he is already, if that were possible. If the race is arranged it will take place after the Champion Stakes, at Monmouth.

Hoggin's b. f. Firenzi, by Glencig-Florids, 4 yrs.,

As there was no third money Connemara did not start, so the race resolved itself into a duel. The Bard was loudly cheered as he cantered to the post with his brush waving gaviy. Firenzi, too, was applauded, but not nearly so vociferously. Many persons noticed bare places on her so veciferously. Many persons noticed bare paces on her shoulders where Garrison's knees in former races had worn the hair off. Both animals looked fit and well. They had no soomer reached the post and wheeled for the start than Mr. Cailwell drepped the flag. Firent, who had the rail, was a head in front, but ally want took The Eard out immediately. ately and opened a gap of three lengths in the first fur-lang. It was apparent that he intended to make the pace so not that Pirenri would be done at a mile. The Bard ran so easily that he seemed to be cantering. The first quarter was made in 27 seconds. Garrison moved up in e straight and decreased The Bard's lead to two lengths Firenzi running under a hard pull, her stride a little quicker than The Bard's, but as graceful as the sweet of a swallow. The half was made in 52 seconds, the three-quarters in 1:18, and the mile in 1:42 1-2 without perceptible change of position. In the run up the back-stretch. The Bard waved his such defiantly and Firenzi accepting the challenge began to steal up on him. On the upper turn the gallant fellow tried to get away, but in vain. The filly refused to be shaken off. Coming the homestretch she was close enough to touch him nto the bare spots on her shoulders, whispered in he ear, said in a dozen wonderful strides Firenzi's nose was at The Bard's throat-latch. Hayward drow his whip and He strode on, but the filly strode faster, with Garrison, his back beautifully curied, looking over his left shoulder in Hayward's face. Then The fish caught the whip in carnest. But it didn't help him, and Firenzi won by one length. The mile and a quarter was run in 2:051-2. Saratoga, Aug. 2 (Special).—The surprises of the meeting here are astounding and thoroughly bewildering to those speculatively inclined. To-day's record leaves a trail or disaster for the backers of favorites that will be hard to crase, and yet it cannot be said that there is an extraordinary amount of in-and-out running. The fact is that the stables here are crowded with fast horses, and as extraordinary amount of in-and-out running. The fact is that the stables here are crowded with fast horses, and as the majority of the races are over short courses it is a great task to place them. There are but few exceptions, as in the case of Egment, who has such extraordinary speed as to run clear away from his competitors, as ho did in the three-quarter dash to-day. The race for the Iroquois Stakes was the third on the programme. Los Angeles was an announced starter, but she picked up a nail this morning and did not appear. Falcon was sent to the post with Hamilton up. McLaughlin was heavy, and Bellis B., who has been of her feed since the Alabama Stakes, carried two and a haif pounds overweight, thus giving the Canadian Billy Pee Weep over twelve pounds, which sho proved unable to do. A very strong Pee Weep top got out early in the day, and she was macked down to b to 1, and the Dwyers, it is said, had a good sun on her for a place. She won all the way, although larail rode her wretchedly in the stretch. He got frigatened when McLaughin got near him and whipped Pee Weep home. Bielli B. appeared to have no speed at the Billsh, the time of the race being five seconds behind the record.

The sensational race of the day was the second, a mile handicap, in which the whole Beld ran in a bunch from start to dhish. It was a race for blood, and aroused the spectators to a high pitch of excitement. Four of the competitors finished less than necks apart, with Hypocrite the winner. For a wonder Brown Duke did not sulk as usual, but after being milled up he showed lameness, which became more pronounced as he was being cooled out. Of the seventern two-year-olds in the opening half-mile spin Serviz was a decided faverite, and getting off well had matters her own way, but she went all to pieces in the stretch, and Button beat her, thus winning his maiden race.

The steeplechase was a farce. Killarney was too great a favorite to win and his jodecy glided very gracefully from the saddic over by the Belmont stable and Abrah

RACING ON THE GOODWOOD COURSE London, Aug. 2.-At the Goodwood meeting to-day the race for the Prince of Wales Stakes was won by Mr. Douglas Burd's bay or brown edit El Douglas. Prince Sollyhoff's chestnut colt Gold finished second, and the Duke of Portland's bay colt Donovan was a bad third. The betting before the start was 7 to 1 against El Dorade, 9 to 2 sgainst Gold, and 2 to 1 on Donovan.

The race for the Goodwood Cup, two and one-half miles, was won by fifteen lengths by Lord Falmouth's three year-old lost filly Rads, with Lord Cadogan's three year-old chestnut colt Osric second and Mr. H. McCalcont's four-year-old chestnut cell Timothy a had third The lest tetting was P to 4 against Rada, 12 to 1 against Osric, 6 to 4 against Timothy.

The race for the Rous Memorial Stakes was won by GIANTS IN GREAT SHAPE.

THE SCORE 7 TO 3-SPLENDID PLAYING OF THE NEW-YORK MEN. [BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] Boston, Aug. 2.-Welch's fine pitching, his superb backing, and timely hitting by the New-Yorks, carried with them victory today. The game, though full of fine plays, was rather devoid of interest on account of the commanding lead that New-Fork took in the first inning. The New-Yorks created a fine impression by their appearance in their new suits, and when they went to the field were loudly applauded. They were evidently too much for their opponents, outplayed them at every point and won with case. Boston tried a new change in its infield, Morrill going to second and Wise to first base The former was unfortunate, his errors giving New-York four runs. Ray created enthusiasm by opening with a clean hit, but the succeeding batsmen could advance him no further than second base. New-York did better. Gore got first on Morrill's fumble and second on Ward's hit to right. Richardson advanced both by an out, and after three balls had been called on Cennor that batsman sent the ball high over the right field fence and three men crossed the plate. In the fourth, Tiernan sent a high fly, which Morrill muffed in short right field. O'Rourke made a good hit to left, and both runners scored on Whitney's fine drive clear to the fence at left centre for three bases. Ewing hit to Morrill for a sacrifice, but that player made a beautiful pick-up and retired Whitney at the plate. In the seventh, Ewing, Richardson and Ward each hit for two Boston had struggled unsuccessfully to get runs up to the eighth inning. In the eighth Tate was hit by a pitched ball and took first, being advanced by Rad-bourne's pop hit to centre. Ray batted to Ward, forcing Radbourne at second, but advancing Tate to third. Nash sent in two runs by a great drive for three bases to Nash on third. In the ninth inning Hornung made three bases on a long hit over O'Rourke's head, and, as Ewing did not come up behind the bat, came home Brown got a base on bails. Then Ewing captured Tate's high foul and threw to second in time to prevent Brown from reaching that base on the play.

Features of the game were the infield work of New York, particularly by Ward; Ewing's catching, and the outfielding of Johnston and Gore. Johnston made a great catch off Whitney's bat in the sixth. Ward did the most timely batting for New-York and Hornung for Boston. Attendance, 3,223. The score was as fol
